HUMAN RIGHTS COUNCIL
Working Group on the Universal Periodic Review
Third session
Geneva, 1-15 December 2008

COMPILATION PREPARED BY THE OFFICE OF THE HIGH COMMISSIONER FOR HUMAN RIGHTS, IN ACCORDANCE WITH PARAGRAPH 15(B) OF THE ANNEX TO HUMAN RIGHTS COUNCIL RESOLUTION 5/1

Israel

This report is a compilation of the information contained in the reports of treaty bodies, special procedures, including observations and comments by the State concerned, and other relevant official United Nations documents. It does not contain any opinions, views or suggestions on the part of the Office of the High Commissioner for Human Rights (OHCHR), other than those contained in public reports issued by OHCHR. It follows the structure of the general guidelines adopted by the Human Rights Council. Information included herein has been systematically referenced in endnotes. The periodicity of the review for the first cycle being four years, most documents are dated after 1 January 2004. In the absence of recent information, the latest available reports and documents have been taken into consideration, unless they are outdated. Since this report only compiles information contained in official United Nations documents, lack of information or focus on specific issues may be due to non-ratification of a treaty and/or to a low level of interaction or cooperation with international human rights mechanisms.

I. BACKGROUND AND FRAMEWORK

A. Scope of international obligations¹

Core universal human rights treaties²	Date of ratification, accession or succession	Declarations /reservations	Recognition of specific competences of treaty bodies

Rome Statute of the International Criminal Court	No
Palermo Protocol ³	No
Refugees and stateless persons ⁴	Yes, except 1961 Convention
Geneva Conventions of 12 August 1949 and Additional Protocols thereto ⁵	Yes, except Protocols I & II
ILO fundamental conventions ⁶	Yes
UNESCO Convention against Discrimination in Education	Yes

1. All Committees expressed concern about the State's position that the respective treaties do not apply beyond its own territory, notably in the West Bank and in Gaza. The Committees reaffirmed their view that the State's obligations under each treaty apply to all territories and populations under its effective control.⁷

2. In 2008, the Special Rapporteur on the situation of human rights in the Palestinian territories occupied since 1967 stated that the right to self-determination of the Palestinian people has been recognized by the Security Council, the General Assembly, the International Court of Justice and Israel itself. The territory of the self-determination unit within which this right is to be exercised includes the West Bank, East Jerusalem and Gaza.⁸

3. Following a request by the General Assembly,⁹ the International Court of Justice (ICJ) issued an advisory opinion in which it noted that Israel has the obligation to cease forthwith the works of construction of the wall being built in the Occupied Palestinian Territory, including in and around East Jerusalem.¹⁰ In view of the Court's finding that Israel's violations of its international obligations stem from the construction of the wall and from its associated regime, cessation of those violations entails the dismantling forthwith of those parts of that structure situated within the Occupied Palestinian Territory, including in and around East Jerusalem.¹¹

B. Constitutional and legislative framework

4. The Human Rights Committee in 2003 and the Committee on the Elimination of Discrimination Against Women (CEDAW) in 2005 noted with appreciation the law reform aimed at the promotion of gender equality and the elimination of discrimination against women.¹²

5. In 2007, the Committee on the Elimination of Racial Discrimination (CERD) remained concerned that no general provision for equality and prohibition of racial discrimination had been included in the Basic Law: Human Dignity and Liberty (1992).¹³

6. CEDAW, the Committee on Economic, Social and Cultural Rights (CESCR) and the Committee Against Torture (CAT) expressed concern about the lack of incorporation of the Conventions into national legislation.¹⁴ In 2003, CESCR noted with appreciation that the judiciary system provided opportunities for the justiciability of the Covenant rights.¹⁵

C. Institutional and human rights infrastructure

7. CERD and the Committee on Rights of the Child (CRC) recommended the establishment of a national human rights institution, in accordance with the Paris Principles, to monitor the implementation of the Conventions.¹⁶

8. While welcoming the establishment of the Authority for the Advancement of Women in 1998, CEDAW noted with concern that this institution may not have sufficient power and resources and called on the State to strengthen it.¹⁷

II. PROMOTION AND PROTECTION OF HUMAN RIGHTS ON THE GROUND

A. Cooperation with human rights mechanisms

9. The Human Rights Council held three special sessions on the human rights situation in the Occupied Palestinian Territory in July and November 2006, and in January 2008,¹⁸ and one special session on the human rights situation in Lebanon caused by Israeli military operations in August 2006.¹⁹

1. Cooperation with treaty bodies

Treaty body²⁰	Latest report considered/submitted	Latest concluding observations	Follow-up response	Reporting status
CERD	2005	March 2007	July 2008	Combined fourteenth, fifteenth and sixteenth report due in 2010
CESCR	2001	May 2003	-	Third report due since June 2008
HR Committee	2008 (submitted)	August 2003	January 2007	Third report not yet scheduled for consideration
CEDAW	2005	July 2005	-	Fourth report to be considered in 2009
CAT	2006 (submitted)	November 2001	-	Fourth report to be considered in 2009
CRC	2001	October 2002	-	Combined second, third and fourth reports due on 1 November 2008
OP-CRC- AC	2008 (submitted)	-	-	Initial report not yet scheduled for consideration

2. Cooperation with special procedures

Standing invitation issued	No
Latest visits or mission reports	Special Rapporteur on violence against women, its causes and consequences, (visit to the Occupied Palestinian Territory only, 13-18 June 2004); ²¹ Special Representative of the Secretary-General on the situation of human rights defenders (5-11 Oct. 2005); ²² the Special Rapporteurs on extrajudicial, summary or arbitrary executions; on adequate housing as a component of the right to an adequate standard of living, and on the right to non-discrimination in this context; on the right of everyone to the enjoyment of the highest attainable standard of physical and mental health; and the Special Representative of the Secretary-General on human rights of internally displaced persons (10-14 Sept. 2006, joint mission); ²³ Special Rapporteur on the promotion and protection of human rights and fundamental freedoms while countering terrorism (3-10 July 2007); ²⁴ Special Representative of the Secretary-General for Children and Armed Conflict (13-20 April 2007); ²⁵ Special Rapporteur on the situation of Human Rights in the Palestinian territories occupied since 1967, (six visits to the Occupied Palestinian Territory, last one 25 Sept.-1 Oct 2007); ²⁶ Special Rapporteur on freedom of religion or belief (20-27 Jan. 2008). ²⁷
Visits agreed upon in principle	None
Visits requested and not yet agreed upon	The Special Rapporteurs on torture and other cruel, inhuman or degrading treatment or punishment, requested in 2002, follow-up request in 2007; on violence against women, its causes and consequences, requested in 2001; on adequate housing, requested in 2005.
Facilitation/cooperation during missions	The Special Rapporteur on freedom of religion or belief thanked the Government for inviting her to Israel; ²⁸ The four mandate holders who undertook the joint mission in September 2006 expressed their appreciation for the full cooperation of the relevant authorities and for the open and constructive manner in which discussions took place. ²⁹
Follow-up to visits
Responses to letters of allegations and urgent appeals	A total of 66 communications were sent between 1 July 2004 and 30 June 2008. In addition to communications sent for particular groups, 96 individuals, including 15 women, were covered by these communications. Between 1 July 2004 and 30 June 2008, the Government replied to 28 communications, or 42 per cent of communications sent.
Responses to questionnaires on thematic issues ³⁰	Israel responded to four of the 12 questionnaires sent by special procedures mandate holders ³¹ between 1 July 2004 and 30 June 2008, within the deadlines. ³²

10. The Special Rapporteur on human rights in the Palestinian territories occupied since 1967 stated that although the Government placed no obstacles in the way of his visit in December 2006, and on occasion facilitated it to allow him free passage at crossings and checkpoints, the Government, as in the past, refused to meet with him, as it did not recognize the Special Rapporteur's mandate.³³

3. Cooperation with the Office of the High Commissioner for Human Rights

11. In 2006, the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights visited Israel and the Occupied Palestinian Territory.³⁴ Israel made contributions to OHCHR in 2005, 2006 and 2007.³⁵

B. Implementation of international human rights obligations, taking into account applicable international humanitarian law

1. Equality and non-discrimination

12. In 2007, CERD recommended ensuring that the definition of Israel as a Jewish nation State does not result in any systemic distinction, exclusion, restriction or preference based on race, colour, descent, or national or ethnic origin.³⁶ It also recommended assessing the extent to which the maintenance of separate Arab and Jewish “sectors” may amount to racial segregation.³⁷ CERD also noted with concern the application in the Occupied Palestinian Territory of different laws, policies and practices applied to the Israelis on the one hand and to the Palestinians on the other hand.³⁸

13. CRC in 2002 and CAT in 2001 expressed concern about the difference in the definition of a child in Israel (persons under 18) and in the Occupied Palestinian Territory (persons under 16) according to Israeli legislation.³⁹

14. In 2005, the Special Rapporteur on contemporary forms of racism, racial discrimination and xenophobia and related intolerance noted that since 2001, the Government Press Office had refused to issue press cards and renew press accreditation to Palestinian journalists, which a 2004 High Court of Justice ruling found illegal.⁴⁰

15. In 2003, the HR Committee welcomed the enactment of the Equal Rights for People with Disabilities Law (1998)⁴¹ and CESCR urged the State to undertake effective measures to combat discrimination against persons with disabilities, with particular attention to persons with disabilities from the Arab sector.⁴²

2. Right to life, liberty and security of the person

16. In 2003, the HR Committee was concerned by what Israel calls “targeted killings” of suspected terrorists in the Occupied Palestinian Territory, which would appear to be used at least in part as a punishment, thus raising issues under article 6 of the Covenant.⁴³

17. On 15 November 2006, the Human Rights Council convened its third special session and adopted resolution S-3/1 in which it called, inter alia, for the establishment of a high-level fact-finding mission to be dispatched to Beit Hanoun, which took place in May 2008.⁴⁴ The Special Rapporteur on the situation of human rights in the Palestinian Territories occupied since 1967 raised the issue of targeted killings and civilian toll during Israeli Defense Force (IDF) military activity, specifically in Gaza.⁴⁵ In November 2006, the Special Rapporteur on extrajudicial, summary or arbitrary executions expressed concern about the killings of civilians in the Gaza strip and Israel.⁴⁶ He also sent a communication on alleged targeted killings of suspected terrorists by the Israeli Defence Forces (IDF) in the West Bank in November 2005.⁴⁷ Attacks by the military also included the alleged killing of 10 Palestinians, 6 minors and four adults in May 2004.⁴⁸

18. Communications sent by the Special Rapporteur on the question of torture related to alleged ill-treatment, incommunicado detention, threats, detention in solitary confinement and intensive interrogation of Arab prisoners,⁴⁹ some of whom were underage.⁵⁰ Other cases also related to detention in unknown detention centres of individuals in Ramallah,⁵¹ including of one underage boy.⁵² In a case on which a communication was sent by the Special Rapporteur in 2006, it was alleged that a woman who had been arrested while she was pregnant was seriously ill-treated and sexually harassed.⁵³ The HR Committee in 2003 and CAT in 2001 noted with concern reports that interrogation techniques incompatible with the Covenant/Convention were frequent.⁵⁴

19. In his report to the General Assembly, the Secretary-General stated that documenting the recruitment of children by Palestinian armed groups remains a challenge, and the extent of the phenomenon is not well known. Reports also suggest that Shin Bet continues to recruit Palestinian children to be used as collaborators inside prisons or upon their release.⁵⁵ CRC urged Israel and all relevant non-State actors to ensure that children are not recruited and do not participate in the conflict.⁵⁶

20. In 2006, the Special Rapporteur on the sale of children, child prostitution and child pornography and the Special Rapporteur on the human rights aspects of the victims of trafficking in persons, especially women and children sent a communication to the Government regarding a child, who had allegedly been trafficked to Israel and who had been detained for six months.⁵⁷

3. Administration of justice, including impunity

21. In 2007, CERD expressed concern about the adoption of a restrained policy in relation to prosecution against public figures for hate speech against the Arab minority.⁵⁸ In 2003, the HR Committee called on the State to investigate public pronouncements by Israeli personalities in relation to Arabs, which may constitute advocacy of racial and religious hatred.⁵⁹ CERD was concerned about information according to which complaints filed by Arab Israeli citizens against law enforcement officers were not properly investigated.⁶⁰ It also recommended increasing efforts to protect Palestinians against violence perpetrated by Jewish settlers, to ensure that such incidents are investigated, and that avenues for redress are offered to victims.⁶¹

22. The Special Representative of the Secretary-General for Children and Armed Conflict observed that the current policy of the Israeli authorities did not meet international standards for juvenile justice.⁶²

23. At the end of her visit to Israel, the High Commissioner for Human Rights stated, inter alia, that an effective system of accountability, including personal accountability, will lead to a change in approach in the use of force, ensuring compliance with international law and appropriate punitive or remedial action.⁶³

24. The Special Rapporteur on extrajudicial, summary or arbitrary executions sent a letter to the Government regarding concerns of impunity following the decision of the Ministry of Justice to close all investigations into the case of the killing of 13 men in October 2000.⁶⁴ The Government responded that, following several requests for re-examination, the relevant authorities had concluded that it would be advisable to initiate an appeal process to reconsider the decision to close the file.⁶⁵

25. Following their joint mission in 2006, the Special Rapporteur on extrajudicial, summary or arbitrary executions, the Special Rapporteur on the right to health, the Representative of the Secretary-General on human rights of internally displaced persons and the Special Rapporteur on adequate housing noted that serious violations of both human rights and humanitarian law had been committed in the Israeli-Lebanese war in Summer 2006.⁶⁶ In its report, the Commission of Inquiry on Lebanon established by Council resolution S-2/1 considered that the excessive and indiscriminate use of force by IDF went beyond reasonable arguments of military necessity, and clearly failed to distinguish between civilian and military targets, thus constituting a flagrant violation of international humanitarian law.⁶⁷

26. The Special Rapporteur on the human rights of migrants, the Special Rapporteur on trafficking in persons, especially women and children, the Special Rapporteur on violence against women, and the Special Rapporteur on the sale of children, wrote to the Government in 2005 regarding allegations that female victims of trafficking felt pressured to testify in court because certain benefits, including shelter and health services, were being tied to their giving testimony.⁶⁸

4. Right to privacy, marriage and family life

27. CERD, CEDAW and the HR Committee noted with concern that the Nationality and Entry into Israel Law of 31 July 2003 had a disproportionate impact on Arab Israeli citizens wishing to be reunited with their families in Israel.⁶⁹ CERD and the HR Committee recommended that Israel revoke the Order and reconsider its policy on family reunification.⁷⁰

28. In 2005, CEDAW expressed concern about the State's assertion that it is not in a position to implement the law prohibiting polygamy and enforce the minimum age of marriage.⁷¹

5. Freedom of movement

29. CERD, the HR Committee, the Special Rapporteur on the situation of human rights in the Palestinian territories occupied since 1967, the Special Committee to Investigate Israeli Practices Affecting the Human Rights of the Palestinian People and Other Arabs of the Occupied Territories, the Special Rapporteur on the promotion and protection of human rights and fundamental freedoms while countering terrorism and the High Commissioner for Human Rights expressed concern about restrictions on the freedom of movement in the Occupied Palestinian Territory, having a highly detrimental impact on the enjoyment of human rights by Palestinians.⁷² In its 2006 report, the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA) stated that illegal Israeli settlements continue to expand and encroach on Palestinian land,⁷³ and noted an increasingly restrictive permit system.⁷⁴

30. While noting that the Supreme Court had recommended that the course of the wall be changed, CERD was concerned that Israel had chosen to disregard the 2004 advisory opinion of the International Court of Justice (ICJ) on the legal consequences of the construction of the wall in the Occupied Palestinian Territory.⁷⁵ A 2007 report by the Office for the Coordination of Humanitarian Affairs (OCHA) noted that despite the advisory opinion of the ICJ, the construction of the wall has continued, cutting entire communities off from their relatives, work and essential services.⁷⁶

31. Two communications sent in 2007 by the Special Rapporteur on the promotion and protection of the right to freedom of opinion and expression and the Special Representative of the Secretary-General on the situation of human rights defenders concerned allegations that two leaders of non-governmental organizations (NGOs) had been prevented from leaving the country.⁷⁷ In a joint communication sent in 2005, it was alleged that the director of an NGO was prevented from crossing the border, on his way to provide testimony before the United Nations Special Committee to investigate Israeli Practices.⁷⁸ In its response, the Government indicated that since the end of the military rule in the Gaza strip, his movements were no longer under Israeli control.⁷⁹

6. Freedom of religion or belief, expression, association and peaceful assembly, and right to participate in public and political life

32. Communications sent by the Special Rapporteur on the right to freedom of opinion and expression related to foreign journalists or journalists working for foreign media arrested and detained⁸⁰ even without charges,⁸¹ killed in the bombing of media installations, injured⁸² or shot by the IDF in the Gaza strip.⁸³ Where the Government responded, it noted where investigations had been undertaken and/or completed.⁸⁴ Two communications sent in 2005 by the Special Rapporteur concerned reports on the prohibition of holding demonstrations against the construction of the wall, including arrest and detention of the demonstrators.⁸⁵

33. In 2008, the High Commissioner for Human Rights, in her report to the Human Rights Council, stated that the measures adopted by Israel to restrict freedom of movement of both people and goods in the Occupied Palestinian Territory severely impeded the population's access to religious sites, notably in Jerusalem, cultural exchanges and events.⁸⁶

34. Following her visit in 2008, the Special Rapporteur on freedom of religion or belief stated that restrictions to access to holy places were disproportionate as well as discriminatory and arbitrary in their implementation. While highlighting the role played by the Supreme Court in safeguarding freedom of religion or belief, she noted that strands within the Christian, Jewish and Muslim faiths had experienced different forms of discrimination. She recommended that all parties to a possible peace agreement bind themselves legally to protect the rights of religious minorities.⁸⁷

35. Following her visit in 2005, the Special Representative of the Secretary-General on the situation of human rights defenders noted that the Government does respect the rights of Israeli human rights defenders.⁸⁸ She highlighted, however, that they faced difficulties in promoting and protecting the rights of minorities, including the Arab and Palestinian communities.⁸⁹ Moreover, defenders in Gaza were becoming more vulnerable because of their isolation, imposed by continuing restrictions that obstruct their movement and communication,⁹⁰ and "security imperatives" had been allowed to justify continuation of gross violations of human rights and humanitarian law.⁹¹

36. In 2007, CERD recommended ensuring that laws and programmes be equally devoted to the promotion of cultural institutions and the protection of holy sites of both Jewish and other religious communities.⁹²

37. CERD welcomed affirmative action programmes to ensure better representation of minority groups in the civil service and within State corporations.⁹³ CEDAW remained concerned about the low level of representation of women in decision-making positions in the civil service,⁹⁴ as also noted by the International Labour Organization Committee of Experts on the Application of Conventions and Recommendations in 2006.⁹⁵

38. While noting the judgement of the Supreme Court of 30 December 2002 in the case of eight IDF reservists, the HR Committee remained concerned about the law, criteria applied, and generally adverse determinations in practice by military judicial officers in individual cases of conscientious objection.⁹⁶

7. Right to work and to just and favourable conditions of work

39. In 2003, CESCR recommended that Israel take measures to reduce the inequalities in wages between Jews and Arabs;⁹⁷ the unemployment rate and to ensure that workers in the

Occupied Palestinian Territory are permitted to continue to work in Israel.⁹⁸ A 2008 ILO report noted that freedom of association and the right to collective bargaining remain under constant threat in the Occupied Arab Territories,⁹⁹ that discrimination in access to employment and productive resources is pervasive, and that institutions representing employers and workers are facing interference in their right to organize.¹⁰⁰

8. Right to social security and to an adequate standard of living

40. CERD urged Israel to assure equality in the right to return to one's country and in the possession of property.¹⁰¹ While noting with appreciation the affirmative action measures taken with respect to the Arab, Druze, Circassian and Bedouin communities,¹⁰² CESCR continued to be gravely concerned about the deplorable living conditions of the Palestinians in the Occupied Palestinian Territory,¹⁰³ and about the continuing practices of home demolitions, land confiscations and restrictions on residency rights.¹⁰⁴

41. In 2005, the Special Rapporteur on the adverse effects of the illicit movement and dumping of toxic and dangerous products and wastes on the enjoyment of human rights, the Special Rapporteur on the right to food, the Special Rapporteur on adequate housing and the Special Rapporteur on the right to health sent a communication relating to the alleged poisoning of Palestinian fields in the West Bank by Israeli settlers.¹⁰⁵

42. A 2008 ILO report mentioned that approximately half of all Palestinian households are dependent on food assistance provided by the international community.¹⁰⁶ A 2007 OCHA report noted that about 57 per cent of all Palestinian households are living in poverty.¹⁰⁷ In their latest reports to the Human Rights Council, both the High Commissioner for Human Rights and the Special Rapporteur on the situation of human rights in the Palestinian territories occupied since 1967 highlighted the consequences of the closure of Gaza, constituting according to the latter, collective punishment.¹⁰⁸ The Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations (FAO) referred to the 2004 ICJ Advisory Opinion and its findings that the construction of the wall and its associated regime had resulted, among other, in the destruction of agricultural land, and means of subsistence, which constituted a breach of Israel's obligations under ICESCR.¹⁰⁹ A 2006 United Nations Development Programme (UNDP) report noted that people living in the Occupied Palestinian Territory face acute water scarcity and the unequal sharing between Israel and Palestine of the aquifers below the West Bank.¹¹⁰ In the same year the Special Rapporteur on the right to food sent a communication relating to a looming humanitarian in the Gaza Strip as a result of the closure of the Karni/al Muntar crossing.¹¹¹

43. The Special Rapporteur on the right to health sent a communication in 2007 relating to the alleged inability of patients to have access to medical treatment abroad, after Israel closed the Rafah crossing.¹¹² CEDAW called upon the State to ensure that Israeli authorities at checkpoints are instructed to ensure access to health-care services for pregnant women.¹¹³ A 2005 UNFPA report mentioned that delays at checkpoints have resulted in unattended roadside births and deaths of some women and infants.¹¹⁴

9. Right to education and to participate in the cultural life of the community

44. In 2005, CEDAW called on Israel to take urgent measures to reduce the drop-out rates of Israeli Arab girls and increase the number of Arab women at institutions of higher education.¹¹⁵ A 2008 UNICEF report noted that in the Occupied Palestinian Territory, restrictions on access and movements challenge students' and teachers' ability to reach schools.¹¹⁶ CESCR encouraged Israel to continue to provide human rights education in schools and to develop a system of mixed schools for Jewish and Arab pupils.¹¹⁷ CERD welcomed efforts made by the State to improve the status of the Arabic language.¹¹⁸

10. Minorities and indigenous peoples

45. In 2006, the Special Rapporteur on the situation of human rights and fundamental freedoms of indigenous peoples and the Special Rapporteur on adequate housing sent a communication relating to the alleged intention of the Government to destroy Al-Sira, an indigenous Bedouin village in the Negev.¹¹⁹ In its response, the Government provided information about the law and the expropriation process.¹²⁰ In 2007, the independent expert on minority issues, the Special Rapporteur on adequate housing and the Special Rapporteur on the situation of human rights and fundamental freedoms of indigenous peoples sent a communication relating to the situation of Bedouin communities in territories under Israeli occupation, who had been internally displaced and had their houses demolished.¹²¹ CERD recommended that Israel enquire into possible alternatives to the relocation of inhabitants of Bedouin villages in the Negev/Naqab to planned towns.¹²²

11. Migrants, refugees and asylum-seekers

46. The Special Rapporteur on the human rights of migrants wrote to the Government regarding the alleged ill-treatment suffered by two construction workers.¹²³ In its reply, the Government provided clarification on the facts and on the investigation undertaken.¹²⁴ In other communications, the Special Rapporteur wrote about two migrant workers who were reportedly detained after leaving their jobs,¹²⁵ and about alleged abuses and illegal acts committed by recruitment agencies.¹²⁶

47. A 2007 document by the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR) reflected that Israel ratified the 1951 Convention relating to the Status of Refugees in 1954 and acceded to its 1967 Protocol in 1968.¹²⁷ A 2007 UNHCR report mentioned that Israel is yet to develop a functioning procedure for refugee status determination.¹²⁸ A 2006 UNHCR report noted the absence of national refugee legislation, and that UNHCR supports the Government with the registration and status determination of asylum-seekers.¹²⁹

12. Human rights and counter-terrorism

48. The HR Committee expressed concern about the vagueness of definitions in Israeli counter-terrorism legislation and regulations and the use of several evidentiary presumptions to the detriment of the defendant.¹³⁰

49. Following his visit in 2007, the Special Rapporteur on the promotion and protection of human rights and fundamental freedoms while countering terrorism raised several areas of concern: the alleged continued use of certain interrogation techniques; the ability of the complaints inspector, as an employee of the Israeli Security Agency, to investigate allegations of ill-treatment or torture;¹³¹ the length of detention with no access to the outside world, including “administrative detention” used in the West Bank;¹³² and the use of military courts to try terrorist and security suspects in the West Bank.¹³³

50. The Special Rapporteur noted that the IDF security screening and search procedures at checkpoints raised concerns about privacy and non-discrimination, particularly heightened in the case of women and children.¹³⁴ Specific problematic areas were allegations of the use of “human shields”, demolition of houses, targeted killings and killings of civilians.¹³⁵

51. One communication sent by the Special Rapporteur on the promotion and protection of human rights and fundamental freedoms while countering terrorism and the Special Rapporteur on the right to freedom of opinion and expression related to the alleged arrest and detention of the Speaker of the Palestinian Legislative Council, as well as the alleged arrest of eight members of the Palestinian authority's Government and 20 or more members of the Palestinian Legislative Council.¹³⁶

52. The Special Rapporteur on the independence of judges and lawyers expressed his concern about legislation allowing the authorities to detain any person on mere suspicion of involvement of terrorist activities, without any formal charges or trial and without human rights guarantees during detention.¹³⁷

13. Situation in or in relation to specific regions or territories

53. The Special Rapporteur on the situation of human rights in the Palestinian territories occupied since 1967, the Special Committee to Investigate Israeli Practices Affecting the Human Rights of the Palestinian People and Other Arabs of the Occupied Territories, the Special Rapporteur on the promotion and protection of human rights and fundamental freedoms while countering terrorism and the High Commissioner for Human Rights expressed serious concern about the continuing deterioration of the human rights and humanitarian situation in the Occupied Palestinian Territory, due, inter alia, to the construction of the wall in the West Bank.¹³⁸ In addition, as a result of the closure of crossings and the system of permits, the Palestinian people are adversely affected in their ability to gain access to education, health and other social services, and places of employment, as well as access to land and water resources.¹³⁹

54. A 2008 ILO report noted that the confiscation of land of Syrian citizens, the uprooting and destruction of trees and seedlings, and discrimination with regard to access to water and construction permits, continue to affect the Syrian citizens living in the occupied Golan.¹⁴⁰ On 28 March 2008, the Human Rights Council adopted resolution 7/30 on human rights in the occupied Syrian Golan, calling upon Israel, inter alia, to comply with the relevant resolutions of the General Assembly, the Security Council and the Human Rights Council.

III. ACHIEVEMENTS, BEST PRACTICES, CHALLENGES AND CONSTRAINTS

55. In 2007, The Special Rapporteur on the promotion and protection of human rights and fundamental freedoms while countering terrorism was encouraged by advice from the Ministry of Justice that he will be consulted and invited to comment on new counter-terrorism legislation prior to its introduction to the Knesset.¹⁴¹

56. CERD noted that security measures taken in response to legitimate security concerns should not discriminate against Arab Israeli citizens or Palestinians in the Occupied Palestinian Territory, and that Israeli settlements in the Occupied Palestinian Territory, in particular the West Bank, are not only illegal under international law but constitute an obstacle to the enjoyment of human rights by the whole population.¹⁴²

IV. KEY NATIONAL PRIORITIES, INITIATIVES AND COMMITMENTS

Specific recommendations for follow-up

57. In 2003, the HR Committee requested the State to provide, within one year, information on, inter alia, the implementation of the Committee's recommendations related, inter alia, to: prolonged detention without access to a lawyer; the practice of "targeted killings" and the demolition of property in the Occupied Palestinian Territory; the “necessity defence” argument used in interrogation techniques; and revocation of the Citizenship and Entry into Israel Law.¹⁴³ In January 2007, Israel provided its comments on the Committee’s concluding observations addressing these issues.¹⁴⁴

58. Recommendations made to Israel by the Special Representative of the Secretary-General on the situation of human rights defenders include inter alia: ending of the occupation of the Occupied Palestinian Territory, respecting the resolutions of United Nations bodies, and accepting its obligations under international human rights and humanitarian law; amending laws, regulations and policies on freedom of assembly, and the right to protest violations; abandoning the practice of administrative detention; accepting independent monitoring of detention facilities; refraining from imposing restrictions on travel of human rights defenders.¹⁴⁵

59. The joint mission of the four Special Rapporteurs in September 2006 recommended, inter alia, that Israel provide the full details of its use of cluster munitions; to investigate whether equal treatment of Jewish and Arab citizens of Israel, in particular regarding compensation for damaged property, access to free medical services and shelters, is ensured; to ensure participation of those affected in the post-conflict reconstruction activities.¹⁴⁶

60. In 2007, CERD requested the State to provide, within one year, information on, inter alia, the follow up of its recommendations related to: revocation of the Citizenship and Entry into Israel Law; the implementation of projects aimed at avoiding separation of Arab and Jewish communities; recognition of Bedouin villages and the rights of Bedouins to own and use their communal lands and resources; and measures to ensure freedom of movement.¹⁴⁷ In July 2008, the State provided its comments on the Committee’s concluding observations addressing these issues.¹⁴⁸

61. Recommendations made by the Special Rapporteur on the promotion and protection of human rights and fundamental freedoms while countering terrorism include inter alia: repealing the Incarceration of Unlawful Combatants Law; to provide remedy to victims of ill-treatment; to discontinue the present practice of authorizing administrative detention on the basis of evidence available neither to the detainee nor counsel; to withdraw all Jewish settlements in the Occupied Palestinian Territory; to ensure that the permits regime and the administration of checkpoints do not have a disproportionate impact on the enjoyment of rights; and that the rules of international humanitarian law be respected.¹⁴⁹

62. The Special Rapporteur on the situation of human rights in the Palestinian territory occupied since 1967 recommended Israel, inter alia, implement the ICJ Advisory Opinion on the Wall.¹⁵⁰

63. In 2008, the High Commissioner for Human Rights recommended, inter alia, that Israel cease all actions violating international human rights and humanitarian law obligations and in particular the prohibition of collective punishment; that all parties to the conflict should establish accountability mechanisms providing for law-based, independent, transparent and accessible investigations of alleged breaches of international human rights and humanitarian law in accordance with their respective obligations; and to end the closure of Gaza.¹⁵¹
