Response:

17. The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia accepts this recommendation.
18. In the light of the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia’s belief in the importance of dialogue among nations and peoples, the Custodian of the Two Holy Mosques, King Abdullah bin Abdul Aziz, launched an initiative calling for dialogue among all mankind. This began with a conference held at Makkah during the period from 30/5 to 2/6 1429 AH (5-7 June 2008) which was attended by a large number of Muslim scholars from various theological and jurisprudential schools of thought. This meeting gave rise to the “Makkah Appeal” which invited peoples, governments and organizations throughout the world, regardless of their religions and cultures, to pursue the path of mutual understanding and dialogue in order to meet the challenges facing mankind.

The Custodian of the Two Holy Mosques then gave an international dimension to his initiative by convening the “World Conference on Dialogue”, held at Madrid in July 2008, which was attended by a large number of followers of world religions and cultures under the generous patronage of the Custodian of the Two Holy Mosques, King Abdullah bin Abdul Aziz, and H.M. King Juan Carlos of Spain. This Conference issued the Madrid Declaration which affirmed, inter alia, the unity of origin and equality of human beings notwithstanding differences of colour, race and culture and called for respect for divinely-revealed religions, preservation of their status, condemnation of defamation of their symbols and opposition to the use of religion to incite racial discrimination.

In continuation of this process, at the request of the Custodian of the Two Holy Mosques, the General Assembly of the United Nations in New York held a high-level meeting on 12-13 November 2008, attended by a large number of heads of State, in which it was stated that the religions through which Almighty God sought to bring happiness to mankind should not be turned into instruments to cause misery, since human beings were created as equals and partners on this planet.

It is noteworthy that this initiative remains a matter of considerable personal concern to the Custodian of the Two Holy Mosques and will be followed by practical steps and future plans to achieve its goal of promoting mutual understanding and tolerance among all nations.

In particular, to abolish legislation and practices which prevent women from participating fully in society on an equal basis with men, including strict gender segregation practices, limitations on freedom of movement, the prohibition on women driving and restricted access by women to work, public places and commercial facilities (Canada); take further steps in enabling fuller participation of women in Saudi Arabian public life by guaranteeing women and girls their right to education, employment, freedom of movement, marriage with their free and full consent and health, including protection from and redress for family violence (Finland); develop and adopt a comprehensive national plan of action for the incorporation of human rights for women into national legislation and practices to ensure the eradication of violence against women, a dismantling of the male guardianship system, an allowance of the freedom of movement, access to work, study, and health care, as well as equal standing before the courts and the right to vote and participate in public affairs, and incorporate and implement the concluding observations of the Committee on the Elimination of Discrimination against Women (Israel).

33. The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia accepts this recommendation in accordance with the commitments that it has undertaken under the CEDAW Convention.

34. The Kingdom emphasizes that there are no statutory requirements that necessitate guardianship or make a woman’s enjoyment of her rights conditional on approval. In the Kingdom women conduct all their affairs in full independence and the Shari’a notion of the tutelage link between men and women is not a legal stipulation; on the contrary, it is a devotional matter in which every individual, whether male or female, is free to define the notion of tutelage in accordance with his or her school of Shari’a jurisprudence. This is the difference between the Shari’a notion of tutelage and the concept of guardianship, which cannot constitute a statutory stipulation since Islam guarantees a woman’s right to conduct her affairs and enjoy her legal capacity.
