Afghanistan UPR Reporting Wheel

Step 1; Mechanism of UPR reporting process
At this stage the course of preparing country report was designed which specified details of activities, time frame, budget, administrative structure, planning, orientation required, as well as concrete actions to be taken by government and non-government institutions. Simultaneously a Steering Committee was set up for supervision of the UPR. It consists of 10 members, recommended by Foreign Ministry and approved by the president. Minister of Foreign Affairs will chair meetings of the Steering Committee. With such political support of Afghan government, the UPR wheel began rolling.

Step 2: Analysis of legal framework of Afghanistan
To this effect all rules and regulation including the constitution, the regular laws and legislature documents, affecting implementation of HR treaties or convention have been reviewed. It is also intended in this stage that legal safeguards will be evaluated and analyzed. In addition to this a number of indicators for this stage were defined so they could be utilized for data collection and Human Right verification purposes. Likewise activities of this stage would entail concrete notes on necessary changes and amendments to state regulation and their consistency with the requirements of the concerned treaty and new recommendations of the UPR report and those of the Human Rights Council. These changes will be developed in the form of proposals to the government for necessary follow-ups.

Step 3: Follow-ups and sector analysis
Based on recommendations and defined indicators, the target areas with shortcomings were specified. Prioritized institutions were treated with as a survey project for further analysis and solutions in line with criteria of concerned treaty. The outcome of the projects was reported through separate situation analysis with special solutions recommended for addressing concerned problems related to implementation of relevant treaties. All findings were incorporated to the report through concrete recommendations for addressing the shortcoming and improving Human Right Situation in target area. Shortly after, workshops on seeking the feedback of participants were conducted. At this stage the drafting group and the three working groups were established. And the report methodology was adopted after discussion and feedbacks of the participants.
