HUMAN RIGHTS COUNCIL
Working Group on the Universal Periodic Review
Sixth session
Geneva, 30 November-11 December 2009

COMPILATION PREPARED BY THE OFFICE OF THE HIGH COMMISSIONER FOR HUMAN RIGHTS, IN ACCORDANCE WITH PARAGRAPH 15(B) OF THE ANNEX TO HUMAN RIGHTS COUNCIL RESOLUTION 5/1

Albania

The present report is a compilation of the information contained in the reports of treaty bodies, special procedures, including observations and comments by the State concerned, and other relevant official United Nations documents. It does not contain any opinions, views or suggestions on the part of the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights (OHCHR), other than those contained in public reports issued by OHCHR. It follows the structure of the general guidelines adopted by the Human Rights Council. Information included herein has been systematically referenced in endnotes. The report has been prepared taking into consideration the four-year periodicity of the first cycle of the review. In the absence of recent information, the latest available reports and documents have been taken into consideration, unless they are outdated. Since this report only compiles information contained in official United Nations documents, lack of information or focus on specific issues may be due to non-ratification of a treaty and/or to a low level of interaction or cooperation with international human rights mechanisms.

1. The Committee against Torture (CAT) noted with appreciation the ratification of the Rome Statute of the International Criminal Court in 2002, and recommended that Albania consider making the declarations under articles 21 and 22 of the Convention.

B. Constitutional and legislative framework

3. In 2004, the Human Rights Committee (HR Committee) welcomed the adoption of new legislation, inter alia, the Criminal Code and the Criminal Procedure Code. CAT recommended that the Criminal Code should be amended in order to adopt a definition of torture that covers all the elements contained in article 1 of the Convention. The HR Committee and CRC in 2005 welcomed the adoption of the new Family Code in 2003. The HR Committee also commended Albania for having abolished the death penalty in 2000.

4. The HR Committee and CAT in 2005 noted with appreciation the adoption of a Constitution in 1998 enhancing protection of human rights through, inter alia, the direct applicability of ratified international treaties and their superiority over domestic laws.

5. In 2006, the Committee on Economic, Social and Cultural Rights (CESCR) noted with satisfaction the enactment of a law aimed at strengthening the authority of the People’s Advocate (the Ombudsman) in May 2005.

6. The United Nations Country Team (UNCT) stated that the Law on Gender Equality was adopted in 2008 and that the new Electoral Code Law includes temporary special measures, such as a 30 per cent quota for women candidates by political parties to increase women’s participation in decision-making. Other recent legal developments included the entry into force of the Domestic Violence Law in 2007 and the passing of secondary legislation on domestic violence in 2008.

7. CRC recommended that Albania take all necessary measures to clarify the definition of the child in Albania and that existing legislation be reviewed to ensure that all children receive the protection they need. In 2006, the Special Rapporteur on the sale of children, child prostitution and child pornography (the Special Rapporteur on the sale of children) stated that the legal framework lacks a definition of the crimes of sale of children and child pornography. He noted that prostitution is a crime in Albania.

8. In 2008, the ILO Committee of Experts on the Application of Conventions and Recommendations (ILO Committee of Experts) noted the adoption of amendments to the Penal Code provisions on trafficking in human beings.

9. UNCT stated that Parliament had adopted the Law on the Organization of the Judiciary, which includes salary scales as well as merit-based criteria for the appointment of judges. The Law on Free Legal Assistance, adopted in December 2008, provides for free legal services to juveniles, witnesses and vulnerable persons.

10. UNCT noted that, in March 2009, Parliament adopted the Law on the Organization and Functioning of the Agency for Supporting Civil Society, which will support activities aimed at encouraging the sustainable development of civil society.

C. Institutional and human rights infrastructure

11. The People’s Advocate was accredited with “A” status by the International Coordinating Committee of National Human Rights Institutions for the Promotion and Protection of Human Rights (ICC) in 2004, which was reconfirmed in 2008. The HR Committee, the Committee on the Elimination of Discrimination against Women (CEDAW), CRC and the Special Representative of the Secretary-General on the situation of human rights defenders (the Special Representative on human rights defenders welcomed the establishment of the People’s Advocate. In 2003, CEDAW welcomed the early establishment of a national machinery for the advancement of women and gender equality.

12. CRC also welcomed the establishment of the Sub-Section on Child Rights within the office of the People’s Advocate, and recommended that it allow for reporting on developments in the implementation of child rights.

13. CRC noted that a multitude of actors are involved in the implementation of the Convention at the national and local level, and urged Albania to ensure effective coordination among them. The Inter-Ministerial Committee for the Rights of the Child should be provided with adequate means for its efficient functioning.

14. UNCT noted that, included among its powers, the Constitutional Court reviews the compatibility of laws with the Constitution and international treaties, and provides final adjudication of individual complaints of violations of constitutional rights.

D. Policy measures

16. CRC recommended that Albania ensure that the revision of the National Strategy on Children 2006-2010 takes account of all areas of the Convention, that adequate financial and human resources are provided for its implementation, and that monitoring and coordination mechanisms are ensured.

17. The Special Rapporteur on the sale of children welcomed the fact that the National Strategy on Children 2006-2010 was designed on the basis of CRC’s recommendations and that a child specialist had been appointed in the Policy department of the Ministry of Labour and Social Affairs. UNCT stated that, in response to CRC’s concluding observations in relation to Albania’s initial report and dialogue through the United Nations Children’s Fund (UNICEF), the Government significantly revised the National Strategy on Children. The National Strategy for Fighting Child Trafficking 2008-2011 was approved in 2008 with a view to assisting and integrating child victims of trafficking as well as to protecting children in poor families.

18. UNCT noted that the National Strategy for Development and Integration 2007-2013 provides the framework to improve policy development and coordination, of particular relevance to the promotion and protection of economic, social and cultural rights.

19. To implement the World Programme for Human Rights Education (2005-ongoing), Albania has officially included human rights education in the teaching curricula of basic and secondary education as part of various subjects, including extra-curricular activities.

20. UNCT noted that a cross-cutting Anti-Corruption Strategy was adopted in 2008. The Special Rapporteur on the sale of children welcomed the Government’s stand against corruption.
at all levels, and noted that corruption impacts more heavily on disadvantaged groups and reinforces their exclusion.

3. Cooperation with the Office of the High Commissioner for Human Rights

21. Albania contributed financially to OHCHR in 2009. In the context of the Delivering as One pilot programme in Albania, a Human Rights Adviser from the Action 2 Global Programme was deployed to UNCT in 2009.
B. Implementation of international human rights obligations

1. Equality and non-discrimination

22. The HR Committee, CESCR and CEDAW were concerned that women continue to face discrimination under customary law and traditional codes (Kanun). CESCR recommended that Albania step up necessary measures to promote equality between men and women and invited Albania to consider establishing an independent mechanism for the coordination and evaluation of activities relating to gender equality. CEDAW urged Albania to implement measures to eliminate the practice of customary law and traditional codes of conduct discriminating against women.

23. The HR Committee was concerned that the Roma community continues to suffer prejudice and discrimination, in particular with regard to access to health services, social assistance, education and employment. CESCR made the same comments. The HR Committee urged Albania to ensure that all members of ethnic and linguistic minorities, whether or not they are recognized as national minorities, are protected against discrimination.

24. The Special Rapporteur on the sale of children highlighted the fact that Roma and Egyptian communities are discriminated against in all spheres of life and the accumulation of disadvantages results in multiple forms of exclusion and marginalization.

25. CRC was concerned, as highlighted also by UNHCR, that discrimination persists in particular with respect to ethnic minorities, children with disabilities and children living in remote areas. CRC urged Albania, as highlighted also by UNHCR, to develop and implement policies aimed at countering the various forms of discrimination.

26. The 2004 Common Country Assessment (CCA) report noted that children with disabilities have no access to education and employment in conformity with their type and level of disability. They are not included in the compulsory schooling, and there is a very low level of integration of them in preschool education.

2. Right to life, liberty and security of the person

27. CESCR, the HR Committee and CRC were concerned at the impact of the legacy of the Kanun (customary law) and the persistence of vendetta or honour killings. CESCR recommended that Albania strengthen its efforts to eliminate the practice of vendetta killings and other forms of violence which originate from the Kanun. CRC made similar comments.

28. CESCR and CAT were concerned about the pervasiveness of domestic violence, abuse and ill-treatment against women and children. CESCR urged Albania to provide training to law enforcement officials and judges. CAT recommended that Albania adopt measures to combat sexual violence and violence against women, including domestic violence.

29. The HR Committee and CRC were concerned at allegations of arbitrary arrests and detention, excessive use of force by law enforcement officials, ill-treatment of detainees in police custody and the use of torture to extract confessions from suspects. The HR Committee regretted... that acts of torture by law enforcement officials are considered as “arbitrary acts” only, and treated accordingly. CESCR was seriously concerned about the reports of ill-treatment and excessive use of force by law enforcement officials, vis-à-vis the Roma and Egyptian communities.

30. The HR Committee was concerned about inhumane conditions of detention, the number of persons on remand and conditions of detention, the condition of juvenile and female detainees as well as the lack of compensation for unlawful arrest or detention. CAT expressed concern at the conditions of detention and pretrial detention periods of up to three years. The HR Committee and CAT urged Albania to improve the conditions of detention for those held on remand and for convicted persons.

31. The 2004 CCA report noted that Albania is both a conduit and a source country for human trafficking, including trafficking of women and girls for the purpose of forced prostitution. The Special Rapporteur on the sale of children expressed similar concerns, noting that many children are trafficked with some form of consent of their parents and family, including trafficking of newborn children for illegal adoption. He also noted that child trafficking hits more severely the Roma and Egyptian communities. He called attention to the problem of re-trafficking, mainly due to the failure to provide adequate support to reintegration and the strong ties between the victims and their traffickers.

32. The HR Committee expressed concern at reports on the involvement of police and government officials in trafficking, and about the lack of effective witness and victim protection mechanisms. CESCR and CEDAW made similar comments. In 2007, the ILO Committee of Experts requested the Government to take necessary measures to secure the prohibition of the use, procuring or offering of both boys and girls under 18 years of age for prostitution.

33. CRC recommended, inter alia, in accordance with article 32 of the Convention, and ILO Conventions Nos. 138 and 182, that Albania pursue measures, at the national and international level, to dismantle trafficking and exploitation networks, and establish control mechanisms to monitor the extent of child labour.

34. CESCR noted with concern the high percentage of children below the age of 16 who work, sometimes in hazardous conditions. Children, many of them Roma, work in the streets and are particularly vulnerable to exploitation. Albania was urged to take measures to ensure that legislation protecting minors against economic and social exploitation and their right to education are rigorously enforced. The ILO Committee of Experts requested the Government to indicate the measures taken or envisaged to prohibit the use of children for illicit activities, and to provide information on the measures taken to protect persons under 18 years of age living in the streets from the worst forms of child labour. The HR Committee expressed similar concerns.

35. The Special Rapporteur on the sale of children stated that a large number of children are employed in the formal sector but work in hazardous occupations under dangerous conditions.

36. CRC was concerned that corporal punishment continued to be used as a disciplinary method, and urged Albania to prohibit it by law.
3. Administration of justice, including impunity, and the rule of law

37. The 2004 CCA report noted that the rule of law is weak despite efforts to improve the function of the judicial system. The lack of transparency and impartiality affects important aspects of judicial operations. The HR Committee remained concerned about alleged cases of executive pressure on the judiciary and persistent problems of corruption, lack of access to counsel and legal aid, and undue delay of trials.

38. CESCR urged Albania to provide specific training to law enforcement officers to ensure that they respect and protect human rights without distinction. Incidents of police violence should be thoroughly investigated and perpetrators promptly brought to justice.

39. The HR Committee and CRC were concerned that, despite several cases of investigations and punishment of those responsible for ill-treatment, many cases have not been investigated properly. CAT expressed concern that a climate of de facto impunity prevails for law enforcement personnel who commit acts of torture or ill-treatment, and recommended that Albania investigate all allegations of torture or ill-treatment with a view to prosecuting those responsible.

40. CESCR recommended that Albania take rigorous measures to prosecute those who engage or collaborate in vendetta or honour killings and other forms of violence.

41. CRC was concerned at the lack of an effective juvenile justice system of specialized police prosecutors, judges and social workers. UNCT noted that interventions on legislative reform in the area of juvenile justice remain fragmented.

4. Right to privacy, marriage and family life

42. The Special Rapporteur on the sale of children was concerned at the way the media portray children: without respecting the children’s right to privacy, the media disclose or make recognizable the identity of victims of trafficking.

5. Freedom of expression and right to participate in public and political life

43. The 2004 CCA report noted that true respect for freedom of expression in Albania requires changes in practices and legislative reforms. The Special Representative on human rights defenders shared the concerns expressed by the HR Committee, in particular with regard to “instances of harassment and physical violence against journalists as well as about threats of defamation suits against them” and asked for information on this issue.

44. The HR Committee was concerned about the low level of participation of women in public affairs, and in the political and economic life, particularly in senior positions of public administration. CEDAW expressed similar concerns in 2003.

45. In 2007, the ILO Committee of Experts noted that persons who have served or have been candidates in bodies or functions of the previous regime were excluded from the right to serve in certain public functions and engage in certain professions. The Committee considered that the criteria for exclusion were not sufficiently well defined and delimited to ensure that they do not lead to discrimination in employment and occupation based on political opinion.
that, in February 2009, the Constitutional Court suspended the implementation of the Lustration Law, a law passed on 22 December 2008, which prohibits people who worked during the communist era in the areas of the secret police, the judiciary or as prosecutors from government employment.137

6. Right to work and to just and favourable conditions of work

46. CESCR expressed concern about the high levels of unemployment that continue to persist, especially in rural areas and among members of ethnic minorities, including the Roma and the Egyptian communities.138 The Special Rapporteur on the sale of children highlighted that the high unemployment rate affects the Roma disproportionately.139 CESCR urged Albania to increase its efforts to combat unemployment through special targeted programmes and recommended taking measures to stimulate rural development.140

47. CESCR was concerned that the current minimum wage, and its absence in the private sector, was insufficient to provide an adequate standard of living,141 and invited Albania to consider introducing a legal minimum wage that is applicable to all workers.142 A 2008 International Monetary Fund (IMF) report indicated that men earned around double the hourly earnings of women in the agriculture and mining sector.143 CESCR recommended taking appropriate measures to amend the Labour Code so as to liberalize the existing limitations on the right to strike.144

48. In 2007 the ILO Committee of Experts requested the Government to provide information on the measures taken or envisaged to ensure that self-employed workers under 18 years of age are protected against types of work which are likely to harm their health, safety or morals.145

7. Right to social security and to an adequate standard of living

49. UNCT stated that data from the most recent Living Standards Measurement Survey (LSMS) show that the overall poverty rate declined from 25.4 per cent in 2002 to 18.5 per cent in 2005, and 12.4 per cent 2008. However, there has been a slowdown in the reduction of poverty in mountainous areas where poverty tends to be highest with little change since 2005.146 The 2004 CCA report noted that unequal access to basic social services is an issue to be emphasized, especially between rural and urban regions.147 CESCR urged Albania to take remedial measures to address the regional disparities that affect the equal enjoyment of economic, social and cultural rights.148

50. A 2006 United Nations Development Programme (UNDP) report stated that poverty rates among Roma are particularly high (78 per cent), especially in relation to the majority (22 per cent).149 CESCR remained concerned about the extent of poverty, especially in rural areas and among the Roma and members of other ethnic minorities.150 The Special Rapporteur expressed similar views.151

51. The Special Rapporteur on the sale of children urged the Government to adopt measures to facilitate procedures for birth registration.152 CRC recommended that Albania, as highlighted also by UNHCR,153 take appropriate measures to promote the registration of all children, paying particular attention to the most vulnerable and marginalized groups.154
52. CESCR recommended that Albania consider enacting legislation that ensures the right to housing and adopting a national plan of action on housing. CESCR also encouraged taking necessary steps to legalize the existing Roma and Egyptian settlements.\textsuperscript{155}

53. CRC noted that, despite marked improvement in infant mortality rates, these remained very high, and marked disparities in health services between different regions of the country exist.\textsuperscript{156} CRC recommended that Albania strengthen its efforts to ensure allocation of resources, including training of sufficient numbers of health-care professionals, and investments in health-care infrastructure, especially in the most disadvantaged areas.\textsuperscript{157} UNCT notes that psychiatric institutions provide poor standards of care to persons with disabilities.\textsuperscript{158}

8. Right to education and to participate in the cultural life of the community

54. The 2004 CCA report noted that the present educational system is not able to fulfil everybody’s right to access to different levels of education.\textsuperscript{159} A 2006 UNDP report noted that while 87 per cent of urban children in Albania complete the fifth grade, only 77 per cent of rural children do so.\textsuperscript{160} UNCT noted that in areas densely populated by Roma communities, access to education can be as low as 13 per cent.\textsuperscript{161} CESCR urged Albania to continue to take effective measures to increase school attendance by Roma children, especially girls, including, inter alia, through the grant of scholarships.\textsuperscript{162}

55. CRC noted that it is widely acknowledged that children in Albania work in the streets, within the family, or elsewhere in exploitative situations or to such an extent that regular school attendance is impeded.\textsuperscript{163} The 2004 CCA report noted that water and sanitation facilities in public schools are quite problematic especially in rural areas.\textsuperscript{164} CRC urged Albania to, inter alia, strengthen its ongoing efforts to address the problems relating to the training of teachers and to increase budget allocations with a view to improving the quality of education and physical conditions in schools.\textsuperscript{165}

9. Minorities and indigenous peoples

56. The 2004 CCA report indicated that Roma children are the most deprived cultural and ethnic group from the point of view of educational attainment.\textsuperscript{166}

57. CESCR remained concerned that Albania has not granted the Egyptian community the status of a minority group, thus denying them the same guarantees and protective measures enjoyed by other minority groups.\textsuperscript{167} CESCR invited Albania to reconsider its position with regard to the recognition of the Egyptian community in accordance with recognized international standards.\textsuperscript{168}

58. The HR Committee urged Albania to ensure that all members of ethnic and linguistic minorities, whether or not they are recognized as national minorities, may enjoy their own culture and use their own language, have access to all social rights, participate in public affairs, and are provided with effective remedies against discrimination.\textsuperscript{169}

10. Migrants, refugees and asylum-seekers

59. CRC welcomed, as highlighted also by UNHCR,\textsuperscript{170} the progress made in establishing a clearer legal framework governing the treatment of refugees and the prevention of statelessness. CRC recommended that pre-screening procedures of foreigners be extended to the border points with a view to guaranteeing maximum protection to child asylum-seekers and trafficked children.\textsuperscript{171}

60. CRC noted, as highlighted also by UNHCR,\textsuperscript{172} that the departure of children from Albania to neighbouring countries is a significant problem, and recommended that Albania, as highlighted also by UNHCR,\textsuperscript{173} strengthen its efforts to, inter alia, determine and address the causes of such large-scale departure of unaccompanied children and introduce safeguards to reduce the phenomenon.\textsuperscript{174}

61. The Special Rapporteur on the sale of children was particularly concerned at the situation of unaccompanied children who are returned to Albania,\textsuperscript{175} and the lack of infrastructure to host children at the border.\textsuperscript{176}

\section*{III. ACHIEVEMENTS, BEST PRACTICES, CHALLENGES AND CONSTRAINTS}

62. The HR Committee welcomed the progress accomplished in legislative and institutional reform, notably the restoration of the freedom of conscience and belief.\textsuperscript{177} The Special Representative on human rights defenders\textsuperscript{178} and CAT noted with appreciation the ongoing efforts aimed at strengthening human rights in Albania.\textsuperscript{179}

63. UNCT noted that one of the key achievements of Albania has been the level of ratifications of United Nations and regional human rights treaties, as well as the introduction of laws and strategies aimed at implementing international standards within national law and policy. Another achievement has been the work of the People’s Advocate, which has maintained its “A” status before the ICC and continues to contribute to the promotion and protection of human rights.\textsuperscript{180}

64. The Special Representative on human rights defenders noted that cooperation between the State and civil society has improved, allowing the human rights community to offer and provide legal assistance, and to be consulted on draft law and law implementation.\textsuperscript{181} NGOs have the right to file complaints before the Constitutional Court for violations of rights in legal proceedings.\textsuperscript{182}

65. CRC noted that Albania continues to face economic, social and political challenges, including high rates of unemployment and poverty, and the brain drain depriving the country of active young people.\textsuperscript{183}

66. UNCT and UNICEF submitted that, despite the broad legislative reform related to children’s rights, the existing mechanisms of social policy were inadequate to significantly reduce social exclusion among vulnerable and marginalized children.\textsuperscript{184} UNICEF stated that a comprehensive system of data collection that allows for disaggregation by income level, geographic location, ethnicity, and gender has to be established.\textsuperscript{185}

\section*{IV. KEY NATIONAL PRIORITIES, INITIATIVES AND COMMITMENTS}

\textbf{A. Pledges by the State}

67. In 2006, Albania pledged to advance human rights both at the national and international level, including by: increasing public awareness of human rights; continuing to promote a human rights-based approach; prioritizing respect for and promotion of minority human rights; and establishing a National Committee on Minorities under the Prime Minister, with the objective of observing the protection and respect of human rights of minorities.\textsuperscript{186}
68. UNCT noted that the National Committee on Minorities has been established. Albania also pledged: to ratify the Optional Protocol to ICCPR and the Optional Protocols to CRC as well as amendments to CAT, CEDAW and CRC; to support strongly the efforts to strengthen OHCHR, and to cooperate fully with the Human Rights Council and its special procedures. Notably, since making the pledges, Albania has ratified the Optional Protocols to ICCPR and the Optional Protocols to CRC.

B. Specific recommendations for follow-up

69. CESCR requested Albania to provide in its next periodic report detailed information on the extent of domestic violence, and the legislative measures and policies adopted to address that phenomenon, including facilities and remedies provided for victims.

70. The HR Committee requested Albania to provide, within one year, information on the assessment of the situation and the implementation of the Committee’s recommendations related to the low representation of women in public and political life; to the arbitrary detentions and excessive use of force by police officers; the conditions of detention and the lack of compensation for the victims of unlawful arrest and detention. In its response, Albania stated that administrative measures have been taken to overcome violence and maltreatment and to safeguard the constitutional rights of persons pre-detained. Albania also stated that it has taken measures to improve the living conditions of inmates, in particular, the separation of minors from adult inmates, and that, with regard to pre-detention situations, legal proceedings and guarantees are respected.

71. Replying to CAT’s request, Albania stated that cases have been brought to evidence concerning the use of violence on inmates, and that recommendations were made by the Ombudsman to the Prosecution Office concerning claims of maltreatment for the initiation of criminal proceedings. In addition, a mechanism was set up to guarantee the protection of the rights of persons deprived of their liberty and prison visits by different organizations are allowed without any authorization.

72. The Special Rapporteur on the sale of children recommended that the Government give priority to the implementation of the national strategies on children and on combating child trafficking, to allocate adequate resources, and to establish a monitoring system.

73. The Special Rapporteur on the sale of children recommended that Albania consider the possibility of decriminalizing prostitution, defining the crimes of the sale of children and child pornography, and adopting a law on accessible procedures enabling victims of trafficking to obtain compensation.

V. CAPACITY-BUILDING AND TECHNICAL ASSISTANCE

74. With regard to education, CRC urged Albania to consider seeking technical assistance from UNICEF. On refugees and asylum-seekers, CRC recommended that Albania consider seeking assistance from the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees. Regarding the economic exploitation of children, CRC recommended continuing ongoing cooperation with ILO-IPEC. On juvenile justice, CRC recommended seeking technical assistance from, among others, OHCHR and UNICEF.
75. Significant steps have been undertaken, with international support, to systematize the training and capacity-building processes required to strengthen Albania’s skills in implementing the Gender Equality Law and the Domestic Violence Law. Albania’s One UN Programme incorporates the principles of gender equality and the development of national capacity throughout.

76. The 2006-2010 United Nations Development Assistance Framework (UNDAF) focuses on, inter alia, assistance to the Government in respect of policies, standards and guidelines that will achieve the Millennium Development Goals and child rights.
