Abstract:

1- This report is presented respectfully by Women Research Center about Iran’s advances in improvements of the women conditions.

2- Because development and improvement of women conditions is one of the indexes of access to stable indexes in developing countries, thus improvement of women conditions is necessary for each movement and activity in macro planning of each country. It is planned clearly and emphasizing by Islam and I.R. of Iran’s Constitutional Law about women.

3- I.R. of Iran’s Constitutional Law emphasized that women, because of more oppressions imposed on them, should vindication more rights of them, and declares that in Islamic viewpoint, women are not instruments, but act in social fields together with men, in addition to their valuable maternal role, and women have high values and munificence in Islam.

4- In this report, in addition to providing an image of women conditions in I.R. of Iran’s Constitutional Law, it is tried to discuss about resulted promotions and opportunities and challenges.

Paragraph 14- Providing multilateral rights for individuals, men and women, and creation of fair judicial security for all of the peoples and equality of them against law

Twentieth Principle

All of the peoples including men and women are equally in the protection of law and could enjoy all of human, political, economical, social and cultural rights with respect to Islamic standards.

Twenty-First Principle

Government obliged to guarantees women rights in all of aspects with respect to Islamic standards and does the following matters:

Paragraph 1- Making appropriate fields for growing of women characteristics and recovery of their material and immaterial rights

Paragraph 2- Protection of mothers, particularly in their pregnancy time and tutorship of children and supports from unsupervised children.

Paragraph 3- Establishment of competent court to keep survival of families.

Paragraph 4- Creation of special insurance for widows and old women and unsupervised ones.
Paragraph 5- Giving tutorship of children to competent mothers for emulation of them, in case they were not the children's lawful parent

Twenty Second Principle

Prestige, life, rights, housing and occupation of individuals are safe from invasion, unless in cases that the law prescribed.

Twenty Ninth Principle

Enjoying from social security in the fields of retirement, unemployment, old ages, disablement, unsupervised, unprotected ones, events and accidents and needs to health, treatment and medical care services by insurance and so are rights for all of the peoples.

Government obliged to provide services and the previous mentioned financial protections for all of the peoples, according to general incomes and incomes from peoples’ participations.

Thirty First Principle

Having houses, proportionate with the needs, is right of Iranians. Government has to provide implementation field of this principle with respect to priority for the neediest ones, particularly rural peoples and workers.
Present Condition

Health

12- Programming to improve women health is very important because health of %75 of the society (women and children) provides by the women directly and %25 of the society indirectly (men); if health is pivot of stable development, woman is pivot of health.

13- According to health indexes improvements, which are all about promotion of women health, like improvement of mothers’ death rate in the country (rate changes from ninety thousand percent to twenty seven thousand percent). Statistics demonstrate increase of life expectation from 57 years to 74 years in women, but their life’s quality encounters with difficulties. Statistics show that %30 of women of 15 to 49 years old involved with anemia or lack of iodide in Iranian women is twice than men. And also physical capabilities of 18 to 26 year old women are equal to 50 year old women in France. It demonstrates that a lot of works should be done to reach to ideal indexes of health in women.

Training

14- In the field of training, Iranian women are advanced and except from Iran's frontiers, all of the girls access to primary schools. On the other hand, it is for many years that women precedence to men in university education, and allocate more than %60 of entrances to universities of Iran.

Marriage

15- Ratio of marriage in 2008 to 2007 increased %3, and ratio of divorce in 2008 to 2007 increased %11. Increase of marriages, in spite of arising of marriage age, was because of changes in the country's age structure and increases of population. Increase of divorces rate is influenced by economical, social and cultural factors such as unemployment, addiction, unawareness about importance of family in youths and so on.

Women's Employment

16- Now, about %60 of university entrances are girls. Higher education and arising of marriage ages between women result in their desire to attend in work markets and obtain economical independence. Increasing of women participation in works, following remarkable increase of their attendance in higher education centers, is inconsistent with traditional structure. some of employers do not believe in scientific and managerial capabilities of women, and the others do not desire to use specialized women in men work places. Continuous of this condition results in increasing of unemployment rate between educated women. Most of the women are working in traditional women jobs because of limited accessibility to financial resources, training, marketing and promotion of technology levels. Moreover to gender discrimination in employment, women are employed in jobs that have higher education and knowledge towards their men colleagues.
Experts predict that if there was not necessary planning, number of educated women, who are asking for jobs, would be increased.

Women Condition in Economical Arena

17- Attendance of Iranian women in economical activities and management of economical institutions is distasteful. Although, social and cultural structures are provided now, there is no satisfactory statistics in this field.

18- According to the latest statistics in I.R. of Iran, there are more than 1.5 million women that are their families' protectors, which together with their children, they will be 9 millions. Constructing shelters, providing health services and occupations are including in the primary supports for this group.

Recommendations for Improving the Current Condition:

19- Comprehensive programming of removal of poverty from countries by planning and implementing common patterns in the region's countries, or a continent

20- Establishment of an appropriate situation for obtaining managerial jobs by women in order that educated and talented women have opportunities of participation in the country's management.

21- Employment by establishing economical agencies together with preparation of international financial resources' participation.
22- Assistance of the governments in preparing and implementing more plans and programs for making women economically powerful.

23- Compilation of policies for changing of men viewpoints towards women, particularly changing of economical and executive managers' viewpoints.
